“ Valerie and Adam Ward were dear friends of ours when we lived in San Angelo, Texas back in the 1970s. Valerie and I were both divorced women doing our best to raise our children by ourselves. Adam was the same age as my daughter Cyd, and the two of them became close friends, Valerie was a hard worker even though she was not in good health. She always had a smile, no matter what difficulties they faced. Adam followed her lead. He was polite, generous, and loving. They had big hearts. May the Holy Spirit comfort all who knew them. They were blessings.
